– SHAUNALI NANDA

ABOUT

Shaunali Nanda, nurtured in the Arts, brought up amongst collectors, obtained her Degree in English Literature and continued to Sotheby's for her Degree in History of Decorative Art. After which she was the lead researcher on the Magnificent Mughal Jewels sale at Christie's. She then returned to India and set up the furnishing and lifestyle retail arm for the family business, which was India's first lifestyle store. Shaunali continued to write and set up the first column for reviewing Christie's sales in the Economic Times.

Shaunali then pursued a degree at the GIA and combined her experience and study in Decorative Art, History and Jewellery, which led to roles at Van Cleef and Arpels as a store planner which led on to visual and event design. She then became the Manager for North America for Hermes for Visual Design, which carried her through to Tiffany for store design and visual merchandising, with individual projects at Chanel and Bulgari.

Shaunali has been a student of History and worked under the aesthetic of eternally classic brands that have formulated taste as it stands today. Her style therefore remains timeless, sophisticated and one of restrained glamour and elegance. Shaunali works on interiors that are in harmony and balance stylistically imbued with quality and style and always referring to classic references that remain eternal in Interior Design.

Shaunali and her mother Sita Nanda run the family firm with their own manufacturing unit where they make furniture in the classical European Style. Here furniture is hand made and hand polished by artisans who have been with them for generations. They have the most coveted list of private clients in India and source from the best brands in America and Europe. They hosted Earl Spencer as they launched Althorp and Theodore Alexander in India in 2019.

Their portfolio includes: The Presidential Suite at the Oberoi and the Cigar Lounge and Bar; Indian restaurant and Residents Lounge, The Lodhi Hotel (New Delhi) in entirety; the Sheraton Lobby Hotel and Grand Presidential Suite, The Presidential Suite for the visit of President Clinton (New Delhi) and the Hyatt lobby Hotel (New Delhi); The TATA suite at the Taj Palace for the visit of President Obama (New Delhi); the Lalit in London and privates apartments in Grosvenor Square.
